Summer 2012

President's Letter

Fellow Residents,

WOW!!

The beautiful, cool spring has given way to extraordinary summer heat. Though our neighborhood and surrounding areas have experienced record high temperatures, your civic club has not been deterred from performing the activities necessary to sustain and improve YOUR neighborhood.

The KVCC board, committee chairs and members have displayed significant effort and progress toward the completion of many ongoing projects. In this issue of the Voice, the KVCC officers, board members and committee chairs have written status reports to help keep you informed.

Chris Hearne, KVCC Treasurer, reports on the club's finances and dues collection. The revenue collection from voluntary dues and Knollwood Village Voice advertisements cover expenses for security, common area mowing and club's expenses. If you have contributed to the KVCC this year, thank you. If you have not yet contributed, please do so. The KVCC needs your financial support.

Scott Rose, KVCC Vice-president and Street Light Campaign Chair coordinated a great team of volunteers to achieve success in raising decorative street lighting funds. The group has shown us, as community we can come together and move forward significant capital improvement projects. The project is not yet completed but significant hurdles have been cleared.

Suzanne Jett and Doug Walla are working on the Knollwood Village esplanade sign project. Design appearance, materials and specs are in the planning stage. Neighborhood esplanade signs that are nice in appearance and built for longevity are more expensive than one would think. Please to contribute to this project so Doug and Suzanne can move this project forward.

Our neighborhood continues to thrive. The submission of plans for new home construction and remodels is at a steady and healthy pace. Our Architectural Control Committee (Brent Nyquist, Bev Blackwood, David Roder, Erik Tennison) and Welcoming Committee (Bev Blackwood) are also very busy volunteering their time to ensure the building restrictions are adhered to and new neighbors are welcomed.

David Wood, longstanding KVCC Security Chair, thankfully doesn't have much to report. The lack in criminal activity can be attributed in part to:

- 1) The significant security expenditures made from the voluntary dues collections
- 2) The consistent and caring patrol by Smith Security's Perkin La Cour.

Please continue KVCC dues payments to support the Knollwood Village security patrol. If you are traveling this summer, be safe and alert Smith Security prior to leaving for increased observation of your residence.

As in the past issue of the Knollwood Village Voice, the newsletter contains Knollwood Village History Trivia. Please read about the history of the neighborhood and KVCC's involvement in preventing and removing "undesired elements" from in and surrounding areas. Many of our neighbors are not aware that KVCC has successfully defended the neighborhood against undesirable encroachments in the past.

If you require additional information, need to locate an item from past issues or deed restriction information please go to the KVCC website (www.knollwoodvillage.org). Use it.

I hope each of you enjoy the summer. Stay safe and hydrate. I hope to see you at the next KVCC group meeting on August 22nd starting at 6:30 pm, at our usual spot, Room 201 at St. Luke's Presbyterian Church at 8915 Timberside Dr. ✪

Knollwood Village Smith Protective Incident Report

by David Wood, Security Chairman
security@knollwoodvillagecc.org

There has been little criminal activity reported to Smith Security this summer so thankfully this newsletter's security report is short.

The only recent reported incident occurred on the night of July 28 when a resident in the 3400 block of Broadmead reported that a portable electronic device was stolen from their unlocked vehicle which was parked in their driveway. A neighbor of this resident reported that on the same evening their unlocked vehicle was gone through by someone, but that nothing was taken. Over the past year there have been a number of similar reports in Knollwood Village where portable music players and phones have been stolen from unlocked vehicles.

On July 18 prior to 6:00 AM vandals damaged a truck parked in the Bethany church lot. They broke the mirrors and windshield wipers on the truck and turned off power to the parking lot lights. HPD was notified.

For those Knollwood Village residents who are interested in learning more about crime prevention and how our police department works the Houston Police Department has a "Positive Interaction Program" (PIP) which holds monthly meetings that all Houston residents are invited to attend.

Our local Southwest Division police substation holds PIP meetings the 4th Tuesday of every month at 7:00 PM in the Aramco Building Auditorium which is located at 9009 West Loop South. This is the multistory building located on the service road just inside the southwest corner of the 610 Loop.

The PIP meetings feature speakers from different divisions of HPD offering crime prevention tips and general information about crime in our area.

If you would like to meet HPD officers that work in the Knollwood Village area or if you would like to ask questions or air concerns about crime in our area the PIP meetings are a good opportunity to do this. If you want to learn what the speaker topic will be for the next Southwest Division PIP meeting please contact Myron Brady at 713-726-7126 or Myron.Brady@cityofhouston.net. ☆

A Brief History of KVCC, Your Civic Club

by Cheryl O'Brien, KVV Editor
clpobrien@comcast.net

Have you ever wondered what the civic club has done that impacts your life? Let's take a brief stroll down memory lane....

Do you know how the empty lot came to be at the corner across from St. Luke's Presbyterian church and across the street from Longfellow?

That lot used to contain a very dilapidated small apartment building which was in dire need of repairs and was vacant. The city was in the process of developing a methodology to follow how to handle buildings that were deemed to be dangerous.

Our club hounded the city on that issue and we succeeded in winning the fight to get that eyesore removed. The building was declared to be a dangerous building and was successfully torn down by the city as one of the very first done under the dangerous buildings ordinance. This occurred in the mid-1980's. That lot has been vacant ever since.

We fought and WON the fight along S. Main to prevent a prison pre-release halfway house from being built by the state at the corner of S. Main and Broadmead on the east side of the street (in the early 1990's). We now have the yellow parking lot for Reliant Stadium and the retention pond and greenery. Much better than a prison facility, wouldn't you agree?

How many of you remember the nightclub that used to be along Buffalo Speedway near Murworth named The Benz? Residents along Linkwood had issues with intoxicated patrons parking along Linkwood, using the front yards as restrooms, and many other unsavory activities. Your Civic Club led by Sid Sabel fought the battle that ultimately led to the closing of the nightclub and demolition of that building also. Homes now occupy that land.

And we fought Metro when they wanted to run bus lines on Broadmead between Main and Buffalo Speedway. Could you imagine having Metro buses running along Broadmead on a daily basis every 25 minutes?? That issue has come up several times in the past 20 years and each time, your Civic Club was there, presenting a unified front to the Metro board in protest.

The Target store entrance for their delivery trucks is another example of the KVCC being very proactive. The original plans for that Target store layout were very different from how it is now. The club was instrumental in working with the city and Target on how to handle parking, deliveries, drainage and other items. While it might not be an ideal layout, it could have been much worse without our working with the city.

These issues take time and energy but very little money. What helped was the volunteer time from residents. Many of your neighbors over the years have taken hours of time from work to attend hearings, meet with the city, etc over various issues.

Please join your board in thanking all of the present and past neighbors who have done so much to make OUR neighborhood a great place to live!

Will you consider helping us continue to improve the area for the present and the future? 🌟

News from Longfellow Elementary

The Parent Teacher Association at Longfellow is comprised of both neighborhood and magnet families. Several improvements to the school have been done this year including a new outdoor water fountain, new picnic tables, murals, and a new sound system for the performances and award ceremonies. Future plans include landscaping and additional training programs for our teachers.

School starts in August - Join your neighbors in supporting the local elementary school and register your child soon! 🌟

Streetlight Upgrade Project

by Scott J. Rose, Vice President & Streetlight Chair

vp@knollwoodvillagecc.org

I wanted to follow up on the streetlight upgrade and let you know things are moving along!

First, the actual street reconstruction project began July 31. That night, a pre-construction resident meeting was held to allow residents to learn about the project and ask/answer any questions. (Residents were notified of this meeting via a postcard mailed to affected homes and on the website.)

As you recall, the affected streets within the boundaries of Knollwood Village will have streets and sidewalks reconstructed; those streets include Tilden, Winslow, Stanton, Prescott and Fairhope between Buffalo and Greenbush, plus Fairhope Place. Conway is also being reconstructed but not the KV side; however, the KV side will get upgraded streetlights, as is expected for Castlewood.

KVCC plans to provide FAQs and periodic updates at www.knollwoodvillagecc.org, so please visit regularly for more information.

Status of the streetlight upgrade project:

And the winner is ...

Congratulations to Laura Ferro (Stanton) on winning the Amazon Kindle Fire!

As previously reported, we reached our initial campaign goal of $25,000 for the east/west streets (and Fairhope Place) in the affected area by the April 13 deadline. Unfortunately, we did not meet our goal for the retrofit of Greenbush so that street will be put on hold for a possible future retrofit effort.

Over the past few months, we have been working with Centerpoint and the City to develop a streetlight design and to determine the actual costs for the streets that are part of the reconstruction, as well as for Conway and Castlewood, which are considered “retrofits.” The design was recently completed for all these streets, and we hope to have the design posted in September on our website for viewing.

Regarding costs, as you know, our initial fundraising goal of $25,000 was based on a good-faith estimate. Centerpoint and the city recently provided us with updated information and an assessment of the final costs for the entire streetlight project and we are $3,500 short of our goal.

Over the coming weeks, we will be determining how best to raise the remaining needed funds. While we expect to be given several months to collect these remaining funds, there’s no need to wait! If you have not yet contributed, please consider contributing now. You can visit our website to pay using PayPal, or send a check to:

KVCC Streetlights
PO Box 20801
Houston, TX 77225

Again, look for more information on the streetlight contribution effort and design soon. Thanks for your patience as we finalize the details! ☆

Treasurer's Report

by Chris Hearne, Treasurer

Treasurer@knollwoodvillagecc.org

A little over half way through the year, we have a little over half of the homes in Knollwood Village contributing to the 2012 budget.

Of those that paid, 39% gave more than the annual $175. That kind of support is helping us close in on our 2012 contribution goal, though we are still about 65 homes short. If you've yet to pay, please take a moment to support your neighborhood.

Contributing to the KVCC is voluntary. We depend on each home owner to choose to join with others to make our community efforts successful. Pitch in.

I like to point out that the majority of the KVCC annual budget goes to one thing: the Security Patrol. If you appreciate the presence of Smith Security in the neighborhood, then please help pay for it. We are fortunate to have an excellent officer in Perkin LaCour, and I'd like to see us keep him watching our streets and homes and families for years to come. I believe it makes a difference for everyone.

We are also raising money for a beautification project: New Knollwood Village signs. If you look at our current ones in the medians of Buffalo Speedway and S. Braeswood, they are tired. We'd like to replace them with handsome, strong new ones — signs befitting Knollwood Village.

So far, we have an additional $2,945 contributed as earmarks to a special fund to replace the Knollwood Village signs. Our preliminary estimates to do the job right — so the signs look great and last for decades — we'll need between $8-10,000. If you'd like to support the effort, send a check or go online to pay at www.knollwoodvillage.org/signs. We'll apply these funds directly to this improvement initiative.

Tell us what you think.

We are conducting an online survey of Knollwood Village neighbors. Please take a moment to give us your thoughts. A handful of questions. Go to www.knollwoodvillage.org/survey2012.

We'll share results in the next newsletter. ☺

Surviving a Remodel

It can be done. Here's how

by Brent Nyquist

ATTICUS ARCHITECTURE, INC.

Build@knollwoodvillagecc.org

After working with dozens of homeowners on home addition and remodeling projects, I have come to believe that there are certain personality traits that lead to positive, low stress projects and some that leave everyone feeling they have just survived a war.

Indeed, there are some homeowners that are simply not cut out for the disruption, dirt and delay that often occur when we turn our homes into a construction site. Addition and remodel work differs from new construction in substantial ways but first and foremost, in new construction, we see the project as a construction site and in remodeling work we see it as our home.

The distinction is important because during a remodeling project, every delay or problem affects our lives directly and we tend to take it as a personal affront which affects our general attitude toward the project.

So what personal qualities are necessary if you are to undertake a remodel or home addition project?

My experience tells me that you should have the following qualities:

Flexibility:

In remodeling and addition work, the number of things we know for certain are limited. While we can try and guess how a house was originally constructed, it isn't until we open the walls and ceiling or dig down through the floor that we can know for certain. Murphy's Law was undoubtedly first written by someone referring to a remodeling job and it seems inevitable that the wall you need to move is full of wires or plumbing, or that the footing you thought ought to be supporting the house is simply not there.

Often, these discoveries can be remedied by making a simple change to the design but other times, it is the budget that must expand in order to make things right. When remodeling requires that we remove or replace a portion of a roof, it seems inevitable that it will rain. With luck and good planning the rain can be diverted but other times, it is not just a construction site on which the rain is falling but your living room or kitchen.

While any of these mini-disasters are things most contractors will work diligently to avoid, it is the way in which the homeowner reacts that will dictate the ultimate success of the project. Always, try to take a deep breath, remember that nearly everything can be repaired, and don't let the disaster at hand allow you to let the project veer off-course.

Patience:

Construction takes time and many homeowners attempt to plan a project with a particular event in mind like Christmas in the new kitchen or a child's wedding reception in a new home. Unfortunately, planning an event in an as-of-yet, unfinished space is often a recipe for disaster.

Many projects entail work by a dozen or more sub-contractors, some of which will need to make multiple appearances during the course of the work. As they need to fill their work schedules by dovetailing your work in with their other jobs, so too will they need to adjust other job schedules to fit a trip or day into returning to your project.

Additionally, most work on a project has to occur in a very particular order meaning that despite the otherwise empty jobsite, you cannot get the painter started until the trim carpenter has completed their work or get tile setter started before the dry wall finishers are completed with their work. Add to this mix the element of weather delays, sickness and injury and the very fragile schedule can begin to lengthen without an evident person at fault.

All of these delays are often compounded by delays caused, at least in part by the homeowner who has not made hardware, fixture, appliance, lighting, tile selections or paint color decisions at an early enough time to keep the various trades working on their project.

When most builders give a construction time estimate at the beginning of a project, it is often based on their optimistic best guess as they don’t want to be penalized for something they don’t have full control over. The homeowner will always be best served by not budgeting the completion date of a project too tightly and to stay informed about any changes to the schedule so that they are not surprised at the end of the job. Remaining flexible on the construction schedule with add years to your life and allow everyone involved to do their best work.

Communication:

When interviewing potential contractors for your project, an important question to ask their references is whether the other homeowners found the contractor to be an effective communicator. Importantly, did they keep the homeowner informed as to the progress of the project, give them adequate lead time on important decisions that needed to be made and keep them informed as to any changes in the budget or schedule of the project.

Good communication is key to a successful project but many homeowners seem to forget that communication is a two way and given that many projects involve a married couple, a three way street. Letting the contractor know of your wishes, concerns and frustrations is an important part of communication and no builder, no matter how good, can read your mind. Additionally, do not save all of your comments to tell people when you are dissatisfied but be willing to tell people when they are doing a good job. Let them know you appreciate them working late, on weekends or Holidays because after all, it does benefit you.

The ability to say “no”:

I have never met a contractor who didn't want to please their homeowner clients. After all, they depend on the homeowner's good references to secure their next job and most builders take genuine pride in the work they do.

A downside of this desire to please is often manifest by builders offering to make alterations or changes to the work or to add new work to the project scope once the project has begun.

While some suggestions will undoubtedly make sense and not be terribly costly to implement, I often find that it is this type of “project creep” that leads to unhappiness at the end of job when the final accounting is done and all of this work needs to be paid for. The best approach is to take adequate time during the design and bidding phases to look at all options. Remodeling on paper is cheap compared to the real thing and you should look at all possibilities before you begin construction including giving thought to the location of wall outlets and light switches. A change during construction should be made only if absolutely necessary or if you feel that not making the change will bother you every day you live in the house.

Moving out:

Anyone who has ever lived through a major remodeling project will make the same recommendation; do not try to live in the house during the work. While nearly everyone can see the wisdom in this advice, the prospect of packing and unpacking twice, moving twice, and the interim costs for both storage and living are enough to make most of us attempt to just put up with the inconvenience and mess and live in the house during the work.

Unfortunately, by the time you realize just how bad this idea really is, it is usually too late.

Construction is neither neat nor clean and trying to maintain a normal life around a constant new supply of dust and dirt nearly impossible. Especially in Houston, where air conditioning is a requirement, dust generated in one part of a house is picked up and distributed into every other room in the house, coating the duct work and even the insides of closets with a fine, gritty coating.

More importantly, even small remodel jobs will bring a multitude of strangers into your house for what will seem to be an interminably long time and your house will become a new location for their tools, music and lunchtime meals.

Even with a diligent contractor, it seems that nearly every homeowner will be affronted by cigarette butts on their driveway, chicken bones in the planter or soda cups left in the yard.

While much of the dirt and inconvenience will still be a factor even if you are living in temporary quarters, not having to deal with work crews knocking on your door as you are getting ready for work each morning will make you a calmer and saner person by the end of the project.

Given all of the caveats above about surviving a remodeling project, it is amazing that there are some people that do not just survive but appear to thrive on such projects. I believe that it isn't just good luck that leads to such results but rather a different mindset, attitude, and level of preparation that sets these homeowners and projects apart.

If a remodel or addition project is in your future make sure you have at least some of the qualities I've mentioned and you may be one of the success stories in the end. ✪

NEWS FROM THE CITY: POLYSTYRENE FOAM RECYCLING AVAILABLE

The City of Houston now accepts clean block style or packaging polystyrene foam at the Westpark Recycling Center, 5900 Westpark, Houston 77057 and the Environmental Service Center South, 11500 South Post Oak Lane, Houston 77045. Residents can drop off polystyrene foam at both facilities.

The operating hours for the Westpark Recycling Center are Monday - Saturday, 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. The Environmental Service Center South is open Tuesdays and Wednesdays, 9 a.m. - 3 p.m. and the second Saturday of each month from 9 a.m. - 1 p.m.

Until now, polystyrene foams — commonly known as "Styrofoam" — were bulk materials used in packaging that ended up in Houston's landfills. Now, polystyrene foam can be compressed by a factor of 40 to 1. As a result, the densified polystyrene foam becomes a product that can be recycled and reused in a variety of commercial and residential uses.

For more information about polystyrene foam recycling and collection, contact Sandra Jackson at 713.837.9164 or email sandra.jackson2@houston.tx.gov.

COYOTE WARNING

In Braeswood Place and West University Place, cats roaming the streets at night have been attacked and killed. All evidence points to the attacks being made by coyotes. Wild coyotes have been spotted in West U and along Brays Bayou. Because the coyotes are native to this area and not domesticated animals, neither the city of Houston nor the city of West U have any plan to catch and remove (or kill) them unless and until they harm a human. That means it is up to us to protect our
